SECTION-III

TECHINICAL SPECIFICATION FOR SURVEY WORK

SCOPE OF WORK

The scope of work covers carrying-out of reconnaissance survey, preliminary survey, finalization of alignment, detailed survey including leveling, profile plotting, and corresponding details etc..

The tentative alignment of transmission line marked on Topo-sheet to the scale of 1:50000 shall arrange by the contractor. All topographical details including all railway lines, rivers, canals, roads up to 8 Kms on either side of the route of transmission line shall be drawn to the scale. Name of the railway station shall be written in capital letters only. Alignment shall be plotted on the map with NORTH being clearly indicated on each drawing. Latitude and longitude shall also be properly marked. The convenience in handling, the width and the length of drawing shall be restricted to convenient sizes with 30 mm overlaps between the sheets. The match line shall be clearly shown on these sheets. However, this tentative alignment is bases on shortest length of line involved and may have to be modified depending on site constraints. It is essential that the equipment / instruments are properly calibrated at the time of commencement of the work, so that they represent true values. If the engineer so desires, the contractor shall arrange for having the instrument tested at the approved laboratory at his cost and the test report shall be submitted to the engineer. The work has to be carried as per the guidelines given here under:

1. Reconnaissance survey: - The contractor will carry out walk over survey along the tentative alignment as indicated in Topo sheet an obligatory points such as river crossing, railway crossing, etc must be fixed first. Based on the following guidelines, alternate alignments are to be submitted by the contractor to concerned Engineer In-charge who will conform about carrying out the preliminary / detailed survey on the alignment approved by him.
 - i). It would be preferable to utilize level ground for alignment.
 - ii). The alignment should not run parallel to the telecommunication network as far as possible. If it is not possible to avoid such an arrangement the proposed alignment should be about 3 Kms from the telecommunication lines. The angle of crossing should between 60-90 degree.
 - iii). There should be min. number of railway crossing, river crossing, and national / state highway crossing as far as possible. If the line is required to be crossed then angle between 60 and 90 degree.
 - iv). Crossing of power lines shall be minimum. Alignment will be kept at a minimum distance of 300 Mtrs. from the power line to avoid induction problem on the lower voltage lines.
 - v). The mountain terrain, hilly terrain prone to landslides and marshy places, low laying areas, river beds, flood prone zone should be avoided.
 - vi). The route should not be a crossed populated areas, villages large food bearing gardens, temples / place of worship, tank etc.
 - vii). The alignment should not be routed in close vicinity of civil / military, aerodrome, radio station, firing range, military / industrial installation.
 - viii). As far as possible the route should not be across forest. In case forest unavoidable the alignment in the forest area should be finalized in such a way that minimum tree falling is involved. For this purpose survey should be carried out as per the directive of Engineer in charge of the work in association with the forest authority.

- ix). The alignment surveyed should be such that it should be convenient to transport towers, conductor etc up to the site during construction.
- x). Area coming in the submergence of proposed irrigation project as also mining areas should be totally avoided.

2. PRELIMINARY SURVEY

- i). The location of angle point on the finalized route should be located in such a way that shifting the same within 20 /30 Mtrs should possible at the time of detailed survey.
- ii). Angle points should be selected in such a way that deviation in the alignment should be smooth and not abrupt.
- iii). Deviation should be slightly less than the maximum designed angle for particular type of tower i.e. for 30^0 towers, the angle should not exceed 29^0 .
- iv). Selection of angle points out side the corner of reserve / forest / work station / garden boundary will be advantageous, in case the line is routed between 2 such boundary or routes of the areas.
- v). Angle of towers is to be provided for sectionalizing at every 5/6 Kms straight stretch. At least 3 permanent point indifferent direction with their radial distances from the angle point should be located from every angel point.
- vi). Approach span near sub station should be surveyed only after lay out of substation is finalized other wise about 2/3 Km length near the proposed substation sites should be left out and alignment at a convenient point in the deviation of detailed survey be finalized.
- vii). The terminal tower should be located preferably at 90 degree as well as close to the gantry. The crossing angle on gantry should not exceed 30 degree and maximum terminal span between gantry and first tower should 90 Mtrs.
- viii). Alignment shall be carried with the help of theodolite by double point method to compensate the error in the instrument. The accuracies in the instrument shall be got checked and calibration done through recognized institution. The contractor should submit necessary certificate to the Engineer.
- ix). In-charge in this regard. While doing theodolite survey, as far as possible, shorter point should betaken proposal of expansion of track and introduction of siding.
- x). Division H.Q. for the particulars Railway track.
- xi). The crossing should be located preferably outside station limit and outside Rly Boundaries. The crossing span should be restricted to 80% of designed spans and the crossing angle should be between 75 and 90 degree. The minimum distance of the tower from nearest location should be $H+6$ Mtr where H is the height of the tower. The tower should be located in such a way that there are not structure, posts, masts, stays etc within 10 Mtrs of outside conductor. In case of Rly Tracks, switching stations even if these are out site station limit are considered to be within station limit and extra clearance to the track is required to be provided.
- xii). Telephone or telegraph pole numbers between which the Rly track to be a crossed, number of wires, height of pole and their distance from the transmission line should be listed out.
- xiii). Type of track e.g electrified / non-electrified as also broad gauge / narrow gauge should be specified.
- xiv). The preliminary survey of the line should be made and plotted on the atleast 1:50000 topo sheet of survey of India map, using the shortest route technically feasible. In respect of forest involvement two or more alternate routes should be submitted for approval. These alternate routes are to be fixed in consultation with the Forest Authorities and the concerned Engineer –in- charge of CSPTRANSCL. However detailed survey shall be conducted on approved route selected out of alternative routes.

A). ROAD CROSSING:

The road crossing should be preferably at right angle and in any case crossing angle should not be less than 75 degree. The crossing tower should be located outside the road boundary. It is desired that the one tower of the crossing span should be as close as possible to the road to make the best use of extra clearance near the tower. It should be ensured that minimum distance from center of nearest tower to road edge should be at least equal to 1.1/2 (one and half) times height of tower.

B). POWER LINE CROSSING:

The crossing should be affected at right angle. The power line to be crossed should be identified and sketch should be prepared showing the following feature: -

- i). Height of pole tower.
- ii) Height of earth wire if any.
- iii) Voltage of line to be a crossed, agency to which it belongs and the height of highest point i.e. top of the pole should be recorded. Similarly the temperature at which these clearance are as measured should be indicated in the profile.

C). COMMUNICATION LINE CROSSINGS:

All the communication line in the area should be got marked on the topo sheet / route map through concerned telephone authorities. Similarly, proposals for construction of new communication lines are being replaced by underground co-axial cable. Proposal of such conversions should be got confirmed at the time of finalizing tentative route of the transmission lines. The parallelism with communication line should be avoided as far as possible. The safe lateral clearance for restricting induced voltages on communication line depend on soil resistivity. However, a minimum separation of about 5 Kms would be adequate.

D). AERODROME / RADAR STATIONS / MILITARY INSTALLATIONS

The complete data regarding these installations should be contained from concerned Aerodrome / communication. Military / Police Authorities should be finalized in accordance with the rules / regulations in vogue in respect of such installations. No objection certificate should be obtained from the concerned authorities for laying the line in the proposed alignment.

3. IDENTIFICATION MARKS

Concrete blocks of size 1000x150x150 mm with 20 mm CSPTRANSCL logo shall be grouted up to a depth of 750 mm at all angle towers location. The theodolite point should be punched on the concrete. Directional indicators at the distance of 10 Mtrs. From angle point should be provided to facilitate easy identification of the line alignment. These should be painted with white color. Survey burgles at convenient inter mediate points shall have to be provided at a distance of every 1.5 Km. to 5 Km. to facilitate easy identification of line alignment during detailed survey.

4. SUBMISSION OF PRELIMINARY SURVEY REPORT:

On finalization of route alignment in the field, preliminary survey report indicating various alternative routes should be submitted to the Engineer-In-charge. Along with above preliminary survey report, following data indicated hereunder are to be produced:

- i). Schedule of angle points.
- ii). Rly crossing details.
- iii). Major river crossing details
- iv). Major power line details.

5. DETAILED SURVEY

After completion of preliminary survey, the final route alignment will be confirmed by Engineer-In-charge. Detailed survey by DGPS along this route thereafter be carried out along with the for strata soil resistivity at require distance.

a). LEVELLING:

- i). Before commencement of leveling work PWD / Railway benchmark available nearest to the starting point should be identified. The datum should be fixed after carrying out survey up to the starting point of the line from this PWD / Railway benchmark.
- ii). Level should be taken at every 20 meters.
- iii). For any sudden change in the alignment such as across slopes, offsets should be recorded.
- iv). All details along the line up to 20 meters on the either side should be correctly recorded at the time of leveling.
- v). Name of villages etc in the vicinity of 200 Mtr on the either side of the line alignment should be recorded and their distances from the line indicated accordingly.
- vi). The angle of crossing of roads, railway track, P&T lines, power lines, boundaries of road etc should be clearly marked on the span.
- vii). In order to check ground clearance for conductors, alignment in the marshy area, water logged area, gardens etc should be correctly marked.
- viii). In case of deep valleys, width of which is smaller than the normal span, leveling up to bottom valley is not necessary.
- ix). No permanent structures, like building, temples etc should be situated directly in the span.
- x). All details is required for preparing railway crossing drawing should be collected.

b). PROFILE PLOTTING:

The scale to be adopted for profile plotting should be as under:

Vertical 1 cm = 2 Mtrs

Horizontal 1 cm = 20 Mtrs

Suitable datum should be selected for plotting levels. The datums enroots the line should be co-ordinated with PWD levels. In case of steep terrain where profile cannot be accommodated on the profile sheet, the datum has to be, changed conveniently by introducing match line showing the change of datum. Each profile roll should contain the name of agency, name of line, scale adopted for plotting, roll No. etc Similarly north direction should be prominently indicated on the top left corner of roll.

All details as available in the field book should be shown in the separately so as to avoid working towers in difficult / prohibited area. Areas where towers cannot be worked shall be clearly marked by writing "Prohibited area". Similarly location of pegs grouted during preliminary survey should be marked on the profile. The bunds encountered reroute the line in different paddy fields should also be shown on the profile.

In case of line traversing in straight alignment for more than 4 Kms, suitable point should be indicated for providing tension tower.

In case of line crossing the railway track/tracks the profile should be plotted in the following scale for obtaining approval for crossing railway track from railway authorities: -

Vertical 1 cm = 2 Mtrs.

Horizontal 1 cm = 5 Mtrs.

Further, following details should also be indicated in profile for providing details to railway authority for obtaining approval for crossing railway track.

required and the name of concerned organization such as local body, municipality, P&T (name of circle). In land navigation, irrigation, department and zonal railways, divisional forest authorities etc.

- xii). The contractor shall gather data regarding the removal of over burden by excavation, erosion or landslides in the areas, which may give an idea of the amount of pre-consolidation that the soil strata has undergone. Similarly, data regarding recent fills shall also be studied to determine the characteristics of the fill as well the original strata.
- xiii). The water level in streams and watercourses, if any, in the neighbored hood shall be noted. The contractor shall make enquires and verify whether there have been underground works. E.g. worked out ballast pits, quarries, old brickfields, mines, mineral workings, etc. The possibility of damage to the structures, sewers, conduits and drainage systems by subsidence shall also be investigated.
- xiv). The survey work includes collection of soil strata in the route of alignment and therefore after getting approval of the route the soil investigation shall be carried out at every 1.5 Km and every angle location enroute the line and for the all type of soils as mentioned at clause 5.1 of technical specification. The strata found are to be submitted to Engineer Incharge in the form of test report.
